Objections To The Rights Offering Estimation Motion

Organized By Objector

	DOCKET NO.	OBJECTOR	SUMMARY OF OBJECTION	RESOLUTION, RESPONSE, OR PROPOSAL
1.	11789, 11856	KenSa LLC ("KenSa")	(a) KenSa asserts that the estimation of disputed claims is not allowed by the Bankruptcy Code.  (b) KenSa asserts that the Rights Offering Estimation Motion is an attempt to circumvent the Claims Procedures Order.  (c) KenSa argues that there should be a reserve in the event a claim is allowed for a greater amount than estimated.  (d) KenSa asserts that the Rights Offering Estimation Motion unfairly seeks payment in the event that a claim is allowed for less than the estimated amount.	Resolved.  Resolved.  Resolved.  Resolved.
2.	11793, 11858	Comerica Leasing Corporation ("Comerica")	(a) Comerica asserts that the estimation of disputed claims is not allowed by the Bankruptcy Code.	The Motion only seeks to estimate unliquidated claims and to temporarily allow liquidated, disputed claims in a particular amount solely for purposes of the Discount Rights Offering.  Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Debtors are willing to modify Exhibit A to the Order to increase the amount of Comerica's claim to $3,464,557.00, the amount the Court estimated with respect to Comerica's claim under the Order Pursuant To 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) And 502(c) (A) Estimating And Setting Maximum Cap On Certain Contingent Or Unliquidated Claims And (B) Approving Expedited Claims Estimation Procedures (Docket Number 9685). Thus, Comerica's objection is fully addressed.
			(b) Comerica asserts that the Rights Offering Estimation Motion is an attempt to circumvent the Claims Procedures Order.	The Motion does not attempt to affect the validity or amount of the underlying claim, but merely seeks to temporarily allow the claim in a certain amount solely for purposes of the Discount Rights Offering.  See above response to item 2(a).

	DOCKET NO.	OBJECTOR	SUMMARY OF OBJECTION	RESOLUTION, RESPONSE, OR PROPOSAL
			(c) Comerica argues that there should be a reserve in the event a claim is allowed for a greater amount than estimated.	There is no opportunity to reserve discount rights pending resolution of underlying claims because the Discount Rights Offering will have concluded by the time of such resolution. Disputed claims cannot be paid this portion of their claims in differing currency because it would lead to differing treatment within the class of general unsecured creditors. See above response to item 2(a).
			(d) Comerica asserts that the Rights Offering Estimation Motion does not provide for the possibility that claims could be reclassified as unsecured, thereby altering the total claims pool of reserves.	Comerica has had over two years to determine whether they properly asserted their claims as secured, unsecured, or priority. Due to the impending commencement of the Discount Rights Offering, there is simply no further time for them to decide which status to assert, at least with respect to the Discount Rights Offering. Claimants wishing to waive their secured or priority status may participate in the Discount Rights Offering at the appropriate amount. Comerica has not done so.
			(e) Comerica asserts that the Rights Offering Estimation Motion unfairly seeks payment in the event that a claim is allowed for less than the estimated amount.	The relief requested protects the ability of the Debtors to recover any overpayment made to a disputed claimant on account of disputed claim in the event the disputed claims is ultimately disallowed or allowed in a reduced amount. There is nothing unfair in preventing a disputed claimant from receiving a windfall if it is ultimately determined that the claimant's asserted claim was without merit.

The Debtors are not attempting to litigate the underlying claim at this time, but are merely seeking to temporarily allow the claim solely for the purposes of the Discount Rights Offering. The Debtors are currently working with TIP on a consensual amount to temporarily allow for the rights offering.
			(b) TIP asserts that the Rights Offering Estimation Motion estimation of TIP's claim lacks any good faith basis and appears to be completely arbitrary.	See response to item 22(a) above.

			(b) Liquidity objects to the estimation of its claims.	This objection was withdrawn (Docket No. 12089).
			(c) Liquidity Solutions, Inc. argues that if the Debtors are wrong about the claim amounts in the Rights Offering Estimation Motion, this would render the Plan unconfirmable under sections 1123(a)(4) and 1129(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code because different creditors in the same class would receive disparate treatment.	This objection was withdrawn (Docket No. 12089).
			(d) Liquidity asserts that the estimation of disputed claims is not allowed by the Bankruptcy Code.	This objection was withdrawn (Docket No. 12089).

33.	11948	General Electric Capital Corp. ("GE")	(a) GE asserts that the Rights Offering Estimation Motion does not provide for the possibility that leases could be rejected up to five days after the final order establishing cure amounts, thereby altering the total claims pool of reserves.  (b) GE argues that there should be a reserve in the event a claim is allowed for a greater amount than estimated.	The Debtors have no intention of rejecting GE's contracts at this time, and are therefore not willing to allocate discount rights to GE based on a hypothetical possibility.  There is no opportunity to reserve discount rights pending resolution of underlying claims because the Discount Rights Offering will have concluded by the time of such resolution. Disputed claims cannot be paid this portion of their claims in differing currency because it would lead to differing treatment within the class of general unsecured creditors.
			(c) GE asserts that the Rights Offering Estimation Motion unfairly seeks payment in the event that a claim is allowed for less than the estimated amount.	The relief requested protects the ability of the Debtors to recover any overpayment made to a disputed claimant on account of disputed claim in the event the disputed claims is ultimately disallowed or allowed in a reduced amount. 36.	11987	James Penney ("Penney")	Penney objects to the estimation of his claim in the Rights Offering Estimation Motion.	Upon further investigation, the Debtors have confirmed that Mr. Penney is an hourly employee. The Rights Offering Estimation Motion does not seek estimation or temporary allowance of claims which, while filed as general unsecured claims, will not be entitled to distributions as general unsecured claims. Claims not subject to the Motion include claims of individual union members that are subsumed by the union settlement agreements and will accordingly be expunged on the Effective Date of the Plan. Therefore, Mr. Penney's claim shall be removed from the Order and not included in the Rights Offering.
